

Leadership Webinar: Authority

Grace Chinese Christian Church

Authority

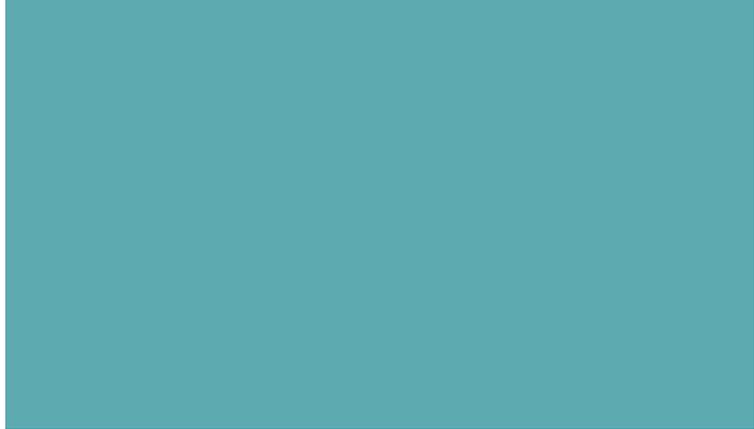

"I expect you all to be independent, innovative, critical thinkers who will do exactly as I say!"

P is for "Power" – This is the power to control, dominate, coerce, bend to one's will, make others do what they don't want to do. (Parental/Hierarchical)

R is for "Role" – This is based on position and title or a mutually understood or agreed-upon job description, which defines a person's duties, functions, and responsibilities.

C is for "Commitment" – This is derived from the many understandings, agreements, and contracts that people make in their day-to-day interactions.

E is for "Expertise" – Often called "earned authority," derived from a person's expertise – his or her knowledge, experience, training, skill, wisdom, education.

P is for “Power” – This is the power to control, dominate, coerce, bend to one’s will, make others do what they don’t want to do. (Parental/Hierarchical)

R is for “Role” – This is based on position and title or a mutually understood or agreed-upon job description, which defines a person’s duties, functions, and responsibilities.

C is for “Commitment” – This is derived from the many understandings, agreements, and contracts that people make in their day-to-day interactions.

E is for “Expertise” – Often called “earned authority,” derived from a person’s expertise – his or her knowledge, experience, training, skill, wisdom, education.

King Saul’s Authority?

P is for “Power” – This is the power to control, dominate, coerce, bend to one’s will, make others do what they don’t want to do. (Parental/Hierarchical)

R is for “Role” – This is based on position and title or a mutually understood or agreed-upon job description, which defines a person’s duties, functions, and responsibilities.

C is for “Commitment” – This is derived from the many understandings, agreements, and contracts that people make in their day-to-day interactions.

E is for “Expertise” – Often called “earned authority,” derived from a person’s expertise – his or her knowledge, experience, training, skill, wisdom, education.

King David’s Authority?

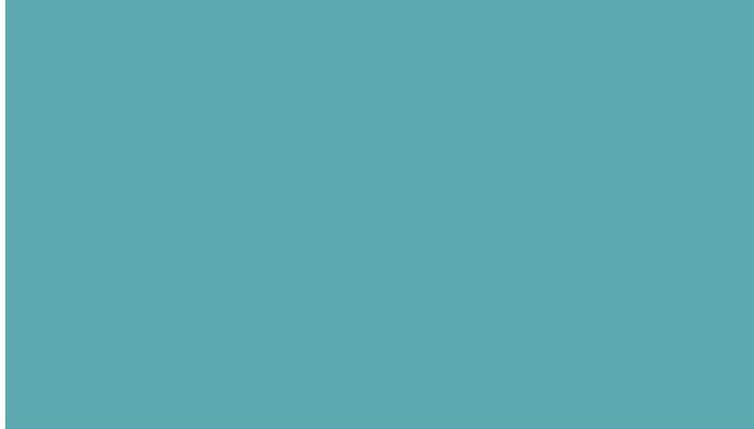

P is for “Power” – This is the power to control, dominate, coerce, bend to one’s will, make others do what they don’t want to do. (Parental/Hierarchical)

R is for “Role” – This is based on position and title or a mutually understood or agreed-upon job description, which defines a person’s duties, functions, and responsibilities.

C is for “Commitment” – This is derived from the many understandings, agreements, and contracts that people make in their day-to-day interactions.

E is for “Expertise” – Often called “earned authority,” derived from a person’s expertise – his or her knowledge, experience, training, skill, wisdom, education.

Apostle Paul’s Authority?

P is for “Power” – This is the power to control, dominate, coerce, bend to one’s will, make others do what they don’t want to do. (Parental/Hierarchical)

R is for “Role” – This is based on position and title or a mutually understood or agreed-upon job description, which defines a person’s duties, functions, and responsibilities.

C is for “Commitment” – This is derived from the many understandings, agreements, and contracts that people make in their day-to-day interactions.

E is for “Expertise” – Often called “earned authority,” derived from a person’s expertise – his or her knowledge, experience, training, skill, wisdom, education.

Apostle Peter’s Authority?